

SHENANDOAH VALLEY QUILTERS GUILD NEWSLETTER

Notes from the President

Offering More

A week or so ago I was struck by an editorial in the Daily News Record, written by Dave Urso, Dean of Academic Affairs at Blue Ridge Community College. I often read his editorials because I find them thoughtful, but this one really hit home.

In summary, the writer said that this past year has changed us all. We see that in the way we gradually venture back into our activities and relationships with others. We are more thoughtful because we have had a period of reflection and reevaluation of what is most important to us. We are making choices about what we want “to put back on the table”.

At our last meeting our guild quilt show committee challenged the members to put the biennial quilt show, which was cancelled in 2020, back on our table. Plans are underway for the show, which is scheduled for June 25, 2022 at Woodman of the World in Dayton, Va. Looking at the slides from the 2018 show, we were inspired by the beautiful and creative work that our members continue to produce. We know that this past year has brought a bounty of new work, new learning, and completion of projects that have been in the works for some time. We can show this work to visitors and community with pride and confidence that we have something special to share.

Dean Urso also made several other points in his article that I want to highlight.

First of all, as we go forward we need “offer grace” to others. Consider the circumstances, both known and unknown, that other people may face and be kind.

Remember that your words matter. Every message can be positive, neutral, or negative.

Recognize that uncertainty is always with us. We cannot assume that things will be like they were in the past. In fact, we realize in a new way, that everything changes, and that we can choose how we respond to the inevitable challenges we face.

Let’s work together, to offer more, to be kind, and to rise to the challenges with grace.

Jane

Shenandoah Valley Quilters Guild Minutes August 21, 2021

President Jane Crockett called the August meeting of the Shenandoah Valley Quilters Guild (SVQG) to order at 9:30am. She welcomed new member, Wanda Walker from Texas and 2 guests to the meeting. Terry Wiita made a motion to accept the minutes as presented in the newsletter. The motion was seconded by Judy Bukauskas and passed.

Nina Jackson presented the Treasurer's report.

Cindy Holland proposed a new nominating committee consisting of Vicki Graham, Terry Wiita, Debbie Jungling and herself. A motion was made and passed to accept the nominating committee. At the current time they have 2 positions to fill for 2022, President Elect and Program Coordinator 2. Cindy also introduced the By-Law committee of Anna Lynn Bell, Linda Puhle, Jane Crockett and herself. The committee reviewed and made revisions to the By-Laws which will be sent out to the membership as a separate attachment to the monthly newsletter with the revisions highlighted.

Debbie Jungling discussed the September picnic to be held at Massanetta Springs. Members are asked to bring a sweet or savory dish. The picnic is scheduled to begin at 10:30am.

Sue Jones and Phyllis Hollowell displayed a 'garden theme' basket that they raffled off for Ways and Means. They offered guild pins for sale and reminded members of the Apple Challenge with the reveal scheduled for the October meeting.

Denise Rudolph with Service had pillow and tote kits, drainage bag kits and patriotic pillowcase kits. The need for the kits has grown with more surgeries being scheduled.

Jane introduced the new Technology Team of John and Leigh Ann McMurray. They will oversee the zoom meetings, the web page and facebook.

The main topic of the August meeting was the 2022 Quilt Show. Jane showed the CD of items displayed at the last quilt show to inspire entries for the 2022 quilt show. Reservations for the venue will be made in the coming months and various committee chairs have been named. There are still more positions to fill. All members are encouraged to start making quilts and Boutique items.

The meeting concluded after show and tell. Linda Quintrell won the raffle basket and 3 door prizes were given out.

Respectfully submitted,
Cerise Haas, Secretary

WAYS AND MEANS

Is everyone ready to finally be able to have our retreat in September? I am really looking forward to that. A big thanks to the ladies that have put this together. We will also be having our “Picnic” in September, so there will be no raffle basket in September. October is the apple challenge. Hope everyone is thinking about and working on their project. We plan on having a great prize for the winner. The judges will be the members of the guild, and the prize will be the October raffle basket. I know we will have lots of beautiful and exciting entries. Enjoy the “dog days of summer” and stay safe and healthy.

The committee so far consists of:

Chairs, Debbie Jungling and Jane Crockett,

Layout and Ribbons, Denise Rudolph

Signs, Jon Hammel

Boutique, Sandie Hammel

Registration, Kathy Christy

We will need all hands on deck to mount this show, please carefully consider how you can contribute.

I would like to have demos like we did for the 2018 show, including, but not limited to, the following: Binding, Hand quilting and/or appliqué, beading on quilts, machine quilting.....

I would like to have some categories for presentation such as Bonnie Hunter mystery section, group quilts, apple challenge quilts, etc. I welcome your ideas!

2022 QUILT SHOW BOUTIQUE INFORMATION

Calling all quilters, crafters, artists, authors, bakers.... Members who have items they create and would like to place on consignment or as a donation to the guild.... start planning. We are starting the organization of a team to make this portion of our next quilt show a special event within the event.

Also we plan "Fabric by the Pound" tables. So if you don't make items you can still contribute to the boutique by gathering your unwanted fabrics: yardage, strips, or bags of scraps to this popular portion of the boutique.

Further information will be posted as we go along.
